

Karen Krymski, the 2022 FSBDC State Star award winner, has offered government contracting consulting for more than 12 years, 9 at the FSBDC at USF. Previously, she spent more than 30 years as an entrepreneur, owning a firm that specialized in marketing, business development, public affairs, organizational leadership and strategic planning. Krymski's industry knowledge includes IT managed services, medical (behavioral health, physician practices and home healthcare) and dental; utilities (water, wastewater, solid waste and recycling); and retail promotions. She developed and built a successful federal government business pipeline for a women-owned IT security company and also founded a local chapter of a national women's business organization, achieving 350 invested members. Her education includes earning a bachelor's in health education and a master's in public health planning from the University of Pittsburgh. She has been recognized with honors by the Tampa Bay Business Journal, the St. Petersburg Chamber of Commerce and several national women's groups. She represented the State of Florida at the first White House Conference on Small Business, elected by her peers.